CHANGES IN THE CANNABIS WORLD !

Reclassification of Cannabis:

On December 18, 2025, President Trump signed a new executive order that has the potential to significantly impact the cannabis industry.

This order reclassified cannabis from a Schedule I drug to Schedule III, redefining it as a substance with a lower risk profile, and greater acceptance for medical use.

While this change doesn't make cannabis federally legal, it marks a major shift in how it is viewed and regulated at the federal level.

This reclassification affects not only state-level cannabis regulations, but also brings direct benefits to dispensary consumers. With the removal of the federal tax penalty, dispensaries may be able to offer more competitive pricing.

The change also opens the door for improved access to banking services and credit card transactions, as financial institutions may become more willing to work with cannabis businesses.

Although these changes may seem incremental, they represent an important step forward and signal continued growth and legitimacy for the cannabis industry.
